ABOUT THE STATE

Nicholas Howley of Rutland died at his home in that city Sunday morning. He was 46 years old and had lived all his life in Rutland.

Town Clerk Fullerton of Waterbury reports a sale of 330 hunters' licenses this season, of which 12 were issued to ladies. The oldest man to take out a license gave his age as 90 while the youngest was a boy of 12.

The small daughter, Susie, of P. R. Dwyer of Rutland, who was accidentally shot Saturday in the jaw in a serious condition as the result of the badly fractured jaw. The physician probed for the bullet Sunday but was unable to find it.

The appointments for the positions of clerk and carrier at Newport post office have been made and the free delivery system will commence November 1st. Twenty-nine applicants took the examinations for the four appointments.

Mrs. Henry Bedens, a well known resident of Middlebury, died very suddenly Saturday morning. She had been attending a Grange meeting Friday night and soon after coming home was taken suddenly ill and died without regaining consciousness. The cause of her death was progressive apoplexy. The funeral was held Monday afternoon.

Robert I. Batchelder, the proprietor of the Battenkill Inn at Manchester for a number of years, went suddenly insane about ten days ago. As he did not grow any better he was taken to the Brattleboro Retreat Sunday afternoon. Mr. Batchelder is one of the best known men in that vicinity and it is thought that a recent injury to his leg caused his reason to become deranged.

C. M. Rouse and brother, aged about 80 years, who live about a mile east of Essex Junction, are potato growers of note. They have about half an acre of land which is yielding better than 400 bushels to the acre. From a piece of land measuring less than one-fourth acre, E. H. Grier, of Richmond, has dug 300 bushels of potatoes, some of them weighing over three pounds each. The ground was fertilized with partially rotted grain from the burned elevator in that place.

BIDS FOR BIG FIGHT.

Oklahoma Man Makes Offer of $60,000 Cash Prize.

New York, Oct. 26.—Bids for the proposed heavyweight championship battle between Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson are beginning to loom up in large numbers. An offer of a $60,000 cash prize was made yesterday by a representative of Joseph C. Miller, head of the 101 ranch at Bliss, Okla.

Mr. Miller stands ready to meet competition for the fight and has already placed the matter before Gov. Charles H. Haskell of Oklahoma, with a view of obtaining his consent for the battle. Besides the $75,000 offer of "Big" Hester, manager of the Mission A. C. of San Francisco, received last night, bids from Jack Gleason and other well known Pacific coast promoters have been received.

Jim Crockett, the San Francisco fight promoter is expected here today with a big bid for the fight. Jeffries' manager said today that any offers for the fight were too premature at this time to be considered seriously.

"What Jeffries wants first is to get the articles signed up with Johnson," said Hester. "It is up to Johnson to make good, and we are ready and willing to meet and sign articles. Jeff won't stop on any conventionalities and means business."

Berger said no word had been received so far directly from Johnson or his representatives.

ROOSEVELT IN LONDIANA.

The Ex-president and His Party Meet Carl Akery.

London, British East Africa, Oct. 27.—Colonel Roosevelt, Kermit and others of the hunting expedition arrived here today and met Carl E. Akery, who is collecting specimens for the American Museum of Natural History at New York. Tomorrow the party will proceed to Eldama ravine.

"Nisi Prius."

People often ask the meaning of the legal expression "nisi prius." Literally interpreted, it means "unless before," a name given to the sittings of a court for the trial of civil causes. Judges on circuit, besides trying prisoners, have the power to give decisions in causes of complaints between private parties and when so acting are called judges of "nisi prius." Formerly, when the circuits were less frequent, the sheriff was commanded "by writ" to bring the jury and witnesses from the county where the action arose to Westminster, Gloucester or Winchester on a certain day, but when the assizes became frequent a "nisi prius" clause was inserted in the writ containing these words: "Unless before that day our justices shall come to your county and take the assizes there." As it happened that the assizes always did take place before the date named in the writ, the clause was practically useless and now remains only as a name for those civil causes to which until recently it referred.—Dundee Advertiser.

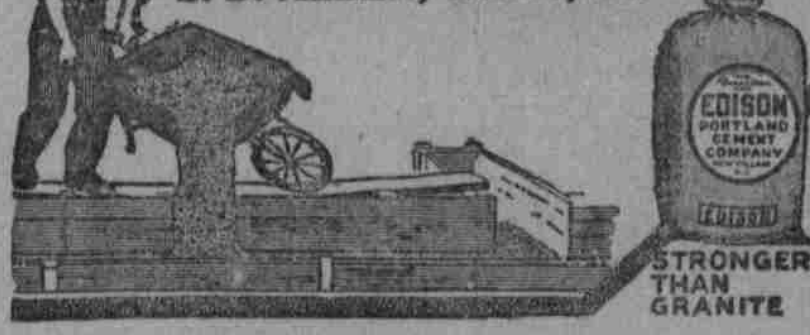

The Fascination of Corn Cutting.

Corn cutting always has a fascination for me. I like to see the farmer grip the tall stalks with a stout hand and, deftly holding them, clip them with a quick stroke of a knife. Around the bundle when it is gathered he twists a slender stalk and tucks the ends tightly under. It is a tidy art, for a twist may lack just the touch that holds the bundle. The farmer's work develops quick judgment as well as deftness of hands, and so it is a good school, for it makes the brains and the hands work together. The boy who follows with a fork should be able to lift the bundle and build a stack that will resist the wind. When the hick-ers come every ear should have been kept well up from the ground and the stalks so well ventilated that there is no smell of mildew.—E. P. Powell in Outlook Magazine.

THE RIVER SEINE.

Its Contact With Paris on Its Journey to the Sea.

Inevitably in its passage through Paris the blue and silver of the Seine's waters are blurred by contact with the volumes of smoke which occasionally hang upon its surface and stained by the impurities which reach it from the streets. Though it quickly recovers its pristine blueness after the fortifications have been left behind, it is never again quite the unsophisticated river that it was before its Paris experience. Its waters are less limpid, its course more nervous, while at its meeting with the sea at Honneur its color and character have changed completely. There the vast stretches of mud over which it rolls, mud of Paris, mud of Rouen, give to the waters of the wide Seine estuary reaching from Trouville to Le Havre the half dead more tones of oxidized silver. The great Parisian river dies magnificently, and no more gorgeous spectacle can be conceived than when on a fine evening the sun sets upon the Seine at its junction with the sea, where its ultimate cliffs fade away behind the summer haze into a powder of gold, and it burns a light turquoise blue, with weird reflections of brazen yellow, old gold and cadaverous green. How different from its gentler and simpler aspect as it huddles round the heart of Paris, warm purple and burnished gold when the sinking sun strikes it as it softly laps against the stone embankment of the Louvre or sparkling blue, dappled with milk white, beneath the silvery mists of the Paris morning.—Harper's Week-ly.
